If you find it difficult to stay at the top of the gardening tasks, a garden magazine can be the perfect solution. Keep records in such information as what is happening in your garden, what plants and equipment you have acquired, and the garden tasks. You can save your notes in a blank notebook, a structured garden magazine, a planning calendar or a digital hand organizer or a digital hand or computer organizer. Another option is to create your own custom garden journal with the indications that are specific to your garden. Print or photocopy several pages with the headings you choose, and save them in a three-ring folder. Then, all you have to do is complete the butterflies in white.spotting around certain isworth plants Noting in your garden record. You can store your notes in a blank notebook, a structured garden diary, a planning calendar or a handheld computer. Organizer or computer. Another option is to create your own custom garden journal with the indications that are specific to your garden. You'll also need a place to store tags and records for your plant acquisitions. If you take pictures of your garden, keep them with your notes. Over time, your gardening diary will be a toolinvaluable For example, if you are sailing through seed catalogs during the winter season and you need to know what blooms at the same time as the peonies so that it can group them, the answer will be in your notes. If someone asks you, what about your tomatoes do you know so? So? But you can not remember everything that planted, you can simply refer to your records. The applications and disappointments of each season will be available so that it can make informed decisions when planning new plantations. Your notes can also remind you how planting seeds or taking cuts. For example, seeds such as tomatoes and peppers should be planted from six to eight weeks before the last frosts of spring, but pumpkin and cucumbers should be planted only three weeks before the last spring frost. It can be difficult to remember everything unless it is written. Keep the good propagation records to track the successful one that has been each operation and how the young plants are moving through the seasons. These records will guide you about when planting, dividing, starting seeds or collecting seeds for future years. The uvid plant propagators can appreciate the records like these: how much time the plans increased indoors before being transplanted outdoors and if that synchronization allowed enough, very little, or too long for great performance al fresh air. When planted outdoor plans and what well they responded to meteorological conditions at that time. When the first buds of the perennial flowers and herbs in spring and were ready to divide. When you took cuts from Roses, lilacs, geraniums, impatiens, chrysanthemums, dahlias and other plants. The success of rooting often depends on the season in which the cuts were taken. When the seedbed matured and were ready to harvest for the next year harvest. With the help of a garden record, you will be able to monitor changes in your garden over time, and get an unique appreciation so your garden needs to grow and prosper. More garden information? After the registration process, you can log in to edpuzzle through the same website and start using so features. edpuzzle is an interactive online learning platform for educators. It provides an easy way for teachers to participate in so students with videos. This free tool allows teachers to modify videos and use them as learning materials either for online classes or assign them as a task for students. edpuzzle: a quick lookpuzzle can be described better as similar to a cloud-based video editing tool. what makes edpuzzle unique is that so editing functions were designed with educators in mind, allowing them to customize the videos for progression and specific learning objectives. teachers can select from the millions of video lessons already uploaded in edpuzzle. teachers who have registered can use the videos already edited by teachers to instantly use as lesson materials or modify them and customize them to help them connect better with their own students. photo courtesy: Jecapix/Getty imageswho want to use their own material can upload videos from web sources such as YouTube, National Geographic and TED. They can customize the videos by adding their own voices and comments, embedding evaluation questions for students or adding links to other related videos.Edpuzzle's features include content based on curricula, features to set deadlines for assignments and projects, and even features to restrict your students' ability to speed up their assigned video lessons. As a formative evaluation tool, Edpuzzle also comes with features that make it easier for teachers to track their students' progress throughout the curriculum according to their grades. The Edpuzzle Teacher Control Panel displays other data including the length of time it takes for a student to complete an assignment and their scores on the questionnaires that are embedded in the videos. Although all this may seem nice and very useful, why does Edpuzzle focus on videos? According to Edpuzzle, its emphasis on using videos as teaching and learning tools is based on a study that says 65% of students learn best with visuals and 95% of students regularly watch videos on YouTube. Edpuzzle is essentially empowering teachers to make the most of visual learning and let them follow the progress of their students at the same time. According to the website, Edpuzzle was released in 2013. Since then, teachers have uploaded about 8 million lessons to their video library, which was accessed by 35 million students and with 70% of schools in the United States connecting to Edpuzzle in some way. Registering for an Edpuzzle account as a teacher is easy and is similar to the usual registration process of most other membership websites. After the registration process, it is important that teachers verify the email addresses they have provided. This allows Edpuzzle to validate teachers' identities, protect their personal information, and help them recover their account if any of them forget their passwords. You will also use the email addresses of the teacher as a means to inform them about any change or update in the system. Photo courtesy: Damircudic / Getty Images In some cases, some teachers who are also enrolled may need to provide providing parental consent. Some United States and regional laws require parental consent or the consent of a child's legal guardian before any institution or individuals may disclose a child's personally identifiable information (PII) to a third party. This means that depending on a teacher's location, you may need to provide proof of parental consent before inviting a student to an EDPUIZE classroom. Teachers can get proof of parental consent from their school or ask the student's parents directly. Links to parental settlement templates and permit slips are available in the Help and Support Section of the EDPUIZZZ website. Search, add, and edit videos to their own library that meet all EDPUIZZZ requirements, teachers can start searching for videos and customize them for their LESSONS. On your EDPUIZZZZ dashboard, you can start adding videos to your account by clicking on "My Content", "clicking on" APARTMENT "AD", and then selecting "Create Video." Alternatively, you can search for videos from any of the channels in the left-side menu to add to your lesson library. Photo courtesy: Eclipse Images / Getty Images If teachers from the same schools have used EDPUIZZLE in the past, teachers who have registered can also use the same video materials by clicking on "MY SCHOOL." Edpuzzle's own channel. On the other hand, it shows an expansive collection of videos of lessons that have already been edited by other teachers. From this channel, you can find videos that you can edit to suit your own lessons. You can also upload videos you want to use and edit for your lessons from Khan Academy, YouTube, National Geographic and other similar websites. After you find a video or videos you want copy and paste it into the EDPUIZZZZ search bar. Alternatively, you can add the Edpuzzle YouTube extension to your browser to add videos to your library easier. Once you have added the videos to your own library, you can start editing to adapt to your online class and assign them to your students. The Edpuzzle Guides on their website offer easy-to-follow tutorials to help teachers familiarize themselves with the many features of the tool. It is a good idea for teachers to make use of these tutorials to make the most of Edpuzzle's features. MORE QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET
